SOAP Endowment Fund

The SOAP Endowment Fund is the charitable arm of the Society for Obstetric Anesthesia and Perinatology. Contributions are used for operational expenses of the fund and to advance the safety and comfort of pregnant women and their babies throughout the world via the following endeavors:

- Research grants to advance our knowledge in the areas of maternal and fetal safety, effective relief of labor pain, and pain management following cesarean delivery
- Education projects to teach and promote the next generation of obstetric anesthesia providers
- Charitable organizations that help bring best practices in obstetric anesthesia care to more patients worldwide

Overview of Foundation Successes

The foundation offers financial support to obstetric anesthesiologists and trainees through various research opportunities.

President's Message

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

The SOAP Endowment Fund represents the enduring spirit of our Society — a commitment to ensure that the science, safety, and humanity of obstetric anesthesia continue to advance through generations. More than a financial instrument, it is a living expression of our shared values: mentorship, discovery, and compassion in the service of mothers and newborns everywhere.

Investing in the Next Generation

This past year, the Endowment Fund strengthened its role as the cornerstone of SOAP's academic mission. Our deepened partnership with the Foundation for Anesthesia Education and Research (FAER) has expanded opportunities for early-career investigators through the SOAP-FAER Mentored Research Training Grant, which provides protected time, structured mentorship, and resources for rigorous scientific inquiry. These emerging clinician-scientists embody the future of our field — translating curiosity into discovery and research into safer, more equitable maternal care.

Complementing this initiative, the Fund continues to sustain the Gertie Marx Research Awards, SOAP/Kybele International Outreach Grant, and Diversity and Inclusivity Mentorship Program, and targeted educational grants that foster inquiry across career stages. Together, these programs cultivate a vibrant community of scholars dedicated to advancing evidence-based, patient-centered obstetric anesthesia.

Stewardship, Growth, and Legacy

The continued growth of the Endowment is a testament to the trust placed in SOAP's leadership and its stewardship. Through disciplined management, transparency, and alignment with the Society's strategic priorities, we have ensured that each contribution fuels tangible outcomes — research excellence, mentorship capacity, and educational innovation.

This year also marks an important evolution in that stewardship: the establishment of the SOAP Legacy Giving Program. This initiative invites members and supporters to extend their impact through planned gifts, creating a sustained source of funding that will empower future generations of anesthesiologists to lead, discover, and serve. Legacy giving transforms generosity into permanence — ensuring that the values we uphold today continue to shape the profession for decades to come.

A Shared Future

The true measure of the Endowment lies not only in financial growth but in the human potential it unlocks. Each scholar mentored, each idea funded, and each career launched reflects the collective will of a community determined to make childbirth safer and more compassionate across the globe.

To our donors, mentors, and partners — thank you for your faith in this mission. Your contributions, both present and future, are the foundation upon which SOAP continues to build excellence, equity, and enduring impact.

With deep gratitude and resolve,

Vice President's Message

Dear Colleagues, Partners, and Friends,

It is a privilege to serve as President-Elect of SOAP at such a promising moment for maternal health. SOAP has long stood apart for its expertise in obstetric anesthesiology and its ability to bring together clinicians, scientists, educators, policymakers, and patients in pursuit of safer, more equitable care for mothers and babies.

Celebrating Strengths and Momentum

This past year, SOAP advanced its mission in meaningful ways. We expanded our research footprint through new consensus statements and support for members conducting funded investigations; strengthened engagement across career stages with mentorship and leadership opportunities; broadened our education portfolio with innovative workshops, the Sol Snider Clinical Track at the Annual Meeting, and programming at the New York PGA Meetings; and deepened collaborations with ACOG, SMFM, ASRA, and international partners. Our Foundation donors and organizational supporters have been central to this progress: It is your generosity that fuels innovation, scholarship, and global outreach!

Looking Ahead

As I prepare to step into the presidency, our priorities will focus on growth, relevance, and measurable impact:

- Elevating Visibility and Demonstrating Value by showing tangible outcomes of SOAP's work and aligning with the urgent priorities confronting obstetrics, perinatology, and women's health.
- Expanding Partnerships with aligned societies, public health leaders, innovative interprofessional education platforms that provide evidence-based training for maternal and neonatal care teams, and advocacy groups to broaden our influence.
- Investing in the Next Generation through mentorship, leadership pathways, and early career research grants.
- Advancing Science and Guidelines by producing evidence and tools that address real-world challenges such as labor analgesia access, cesarean pain management, documentation, and workforce needs.
- Securing Our Future by growing the Foundation endowment and diversifying revenue to sustain SOAP's mission for decades.

The challenges in maternal health and anesthesia are complex and urgent, but SOAP is uniquely positioned to lead. I invite every member, donor, and partner to join us in this work. Together, we will ensure SOAP continues to set the standard for excellence in obstetric anesthesia and perinatology worldwide.

With gratitude and anticipation,
